

OUR MISSION

California City Transportation Initiative

THE CALIFORNIA CITY TRANSPORTATION INITIATIVE (CaCTI)

brings together transportation department directors and agency heads from eight of California's largest cities, to collaborate in the pursuit of and to provide education to decision-makers about the need for progressive urban transportation policy and traffic safety reform at all levels.

WHO WE ARE

Today's complex mobility ecosystem, with its mix of traditional modes and emerging technologies all operating on the public rights-of-way historically regulated by local governments, demands innovative leadership and responsive regulatory oversight, to ensure the safe and efficient movement of our citizens around and through California's cities. California's transportation laws and regulatory structures must evolve to match these needs.

CaCTI member cities are dedicated to safe, sustainable, and equitable transportation outcomes. We support a variety of emerging and shared mobility options that can reduce reliance on automobiles, enhance environmental quality, support community sustainability, and provide citizens a variety of mobility options.
